MAJOR POINTS CALL FOR REDUCTION OF FARM PRODUCTION AND FIXING PRICES

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Governor Floyd B. Olson today advanced his long awaited program of farm relief before a conference of representatives of more than a dozen farm organization leaders.

The two major points, Olson emphasized, included reduction of farm production and operation expenses and regulation by law of the prices the farmer receives for his products.

To attain these ends, Minnesota's farmer-labor executive advocated a series of legislative acts which will:

- Provide a state income tax;
- Reduce taxable values of farm and city homesteads by a third and replace tax revenues lost this way with the income tax;
- Reduce the interest rate on farm loans by the state from 5 1/2 per cent to 3 1/2 per cent;
- Obtain money to allow this reduction from the federal government;
- Abatement of delayed tax payments by farmers;
- Recommendation to the federal congress that it adopt McNary-Haugen bill.

Selling of surplus wheat at prices low enough for livestock feed;

Presentation to starving Chinese of large amounts of surplus wheat.

Taxes and interest, Olson said, are at present the farmer's chief costs of production. To relieve this burden, he suggested the income tax to replace part of the levy now made on real property.

The proposed tax would also aid the city dweller, Olson said.

"Farmers now pay taxes on an assessed value, which is a third of the full and true value, while the city home owner pays on an assessed value which is 40 per cent of the full value," Olson said.

"The income tax would enable the state to cut a third off this rate, making the farmer pay on about 22 per cent of the true value of his property and the city home owner on about 27 per cent."

This reduction, Olson said, would apply only to homesteads and would encourage home owning.

The reduction would be amply met by the income tax, Olson said, he had learned from the state tax commission. The change in tax plans also would reduce governmental expenditures generally, since costs would have to be reduced to meet reduction in revenue.

Olson said that when congress opens in November he will ask President Hoover and congress to authorize the loans of some $34,000,000 to Minnesota at one per cent interest to be used for the purpose of lowering the interest on farm loans.

ISLANDS MUST SHOW STABILITY BEFORE FREEDOM IS GIVEN

HOOPER SAYS INDEPENDENCE CANNOT BE GRANTED PHILIPPINES AT THIS TIME

Washington, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—President Hoover, talking to newspapermen at his regular bi-weekly press conference today, said that Philippine independence cannot be granted until economic independence and governmental stability of the islands can be assured.

"Independence has at some time been promised by every president and every congress," Mr. Hoover said. "The problem is one of time."

From the standpoint of the islands, he said, the durability of their independence must be established before it can be accepted.

Premature independence without such assurances would result in a collapse of all the islands, he said.

The Hoover statement was accepted as an indication that he as well as the cabinet does not believe the time for independence has yet come.

Warns Jury That Case May Involve Ex-President

Toledo, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—A warning that the case "may involve the good name of a deceased president of the United States" was issued to prospective jurors today by Judge John M. Killits as the $50,000 libel suit of Nan Britton went to trial in federal court.

Miss Britton, author of the book, "The President's Daughter," is asking damages from C. A. Klunk, Marion hotel man, for distributing copies of another book, replying to her written assertions.

"This is the case of Miss Nan Britton," Judge Killits said, "whose story is purported to be told in a book called 'The President's Daughter' in which is told her purported relations with the late president and in which is purported his alleged paternity of her daughter. The book will figure prominently in the trial."

Canada Opposes 10 Day Duck Shoot Extension

W. D. Stewart, state game and fish commissioner, who led the appeal of thousands of Minnesota hunters for a ten-day extension of the duck hunting season, stated to The Brainerd Dispatch this afternoon he will refer the plea to the State Conservation Commission.

Stewart was in receipt here this afternoon of a telegram from D. J. McKenzie, Winnipeg, Manitoba game and fish commissioner, saying that Manitoba opposes any proposed extension of the duck hunting season because of the thinning out of flocks this year.

FREES PRISONER RECAPTURED AFTER 16 YEARS' FREEDOM

FRIENDS COME TO DEFENSE OF MAN THEY KNEW FOR YEARS AS MODEL CITIZEN

Columbus, O., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Gov. George White today gave legal sanction to new principles of life which 16 years ago Charles McCull adopted after creeping away from an Ohio prison farm, and assuming the new name of Charles Cundiff.

Cundiff, living in the shadow of an escape from payment of a debt Ohio assessed against him, was given a commutation of sentence and freed to return to his home at Mason City, W. Va.

"This is no enemy of society," said a message from Mason City residents who knew Cundiff for years as a model citizen, then learned he was an escaped convict.

The citizens came to the defense of the man after a disagreement over a charge of $20 which he made for washing a woman's house caused her to report him to Ohio authorities.

Governor White, by his action today, allayed the gloomy threat which had hung over Cundiff's stolen freedom.

Cundiff went to Mason City one night after he walked away from the prison camp to which he was sent when convicted of wounding a man during a quarrel.

Investigation by S. P. Dunkle, executive secretary of the governor, revealed Cundiff, then McCull, had gone to prison to shield an uncle, William Cundiff, who was the father of a large family.

CAPONE DENIED BAIL, GRANTED DELAY IN REMOVAL TO PRISON

SENTENCED GANG CHIEF MUST REMAIN PRISONER IN COUNTY JAIL

Chicago, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—"Scarface Al" Capone was granted a writ of supersedeas today by the United States circuit court of appeals, delaying his removal to Leavenworth penitentiary but was denied bail and must remain a prisoner in the county jail.

The circuit court of appeals ruled that Capone should await in jail result of a projected appeal to the United States supreme court of Capone's conviction of income tax evasion, for which he was sentenced to 11 years imprisonment and fined $50,000.

While the circuit court's order stayed execution of the penitentiary sentence it did not affect payment of the fine.

FARM BOARD SELLS 20 MILLION BUSHELS WHEAT TO FRANCE

OTHER EUROPEAN COUNTRIES NEGOTIATING FOR PURCHASE OF WHEAT, COTTON

Paris, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Negotiations have been about completed for the French government to buy at least 20,000,000 bushels of United States arm board wheat. The total may reach 50,000,000 bushels.

Simultaneously, several central European governments have been negotiating with the farm board to buy cotton on credit.

The wheat transaction will be put through by Pierre Du Pasquier, France probably will pay cash and allow the wheat to enter duty free, to be shipped from the United States as required by French millers.

Completion of the transaction will be facilitated by the fact that United States hard wheat is selling for 5 cents a bushel less than Canadian, while Russia has withdrawn from the market until January 1.

France needs to import 50,000,000 to 70,000,000 bushels in the year ending August 1, 1932. Imports of United States wheat for the first eight months of 1931 were triple those of the same period of 1930.

Central European countries hoped to take large quantities of American cotton, part of which they would try to sell in the open market for money to buy other commodities, principally metals. France also may take some cotton.

MRS. JUDD CHANGES MIND, REFUSES TO RETURN TO ARIZONA

WILL FIGHT EVERY MOVE TO EXTRADITE HER TO ARIZONA TO FACE MURDER CHARGES

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Dr. William C. Judd, husband of Winnie Ruth Judd, charged with the Phoenix trunk murders, surrendered here today to a complaint accusing him of practicing medicine without a license.

Los Angeles, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Attorneys for Winnie Ruth Judd, doing an abrupt about face, announced today that she would fight every move to extradite her to Arizona where she is charged with murdering her two friends, Miss Hedvig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Lerol.

Louis Russell said an error had been found in the extradition papers brought to California from Arizona and that when they were signed by Governor James Rolph it was the defense's intention to force a court review of the documents.

New York, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Directors of the United States Steel Corporation today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common stock.

NORTHWEST WINDS RASP WARNING OF IMPENDING WINTER

SNOW FALLS IN COMPARATIVELY SMALL AREAS IN THE MOUNTAINS

Denver, Colo., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—High winds pushed winter's first attack on the Rock mountain region northeastward toward Minnesota today.

In the trail of a storm which swept out of the north last night were left snow, freezing temperatures, frost and clouds, but little damage.

Montana, northern Wyoming and the high sections of Colorado bore the brunt of the storm before its southward course was checked.

The first real warnings of approaching winter sent chills through residents of Brainerd and the Northwest today with the result that thousands of them started shoveling coal.

Today's storm area, spreading from the Rocky mountains past the Mississippi valley, was not really severe in most states, but it was a warning.

Snow fell in a comparatively small area in the mountains, chiefly around Yellowstone National Park. Temperatures in the mountain region ranged from a low of 32 at Yellowstone to a high of 78 at Pueblo. In almost all mountain states, the temperature dropped last night to below 40.

Midwestern cities felt the effects of the storm area and government meteorologists predicted still further unpleasant weather changes.

At Denver the force of the storm was felt when the mercury dropped 27 degrees in 24 hours. In Wyoming the snow became so heavy in some places that telephone and telegraph communications were disrupted. Airplane service was delayed throughout the mountain region.

Probably the most severe weather anywhere in the west was at Quincy, Ill., where a 25-minute cloudburst swept automobiles off the highways, flooded basements and caused much discomfort.

FARMER IS INJURED IN CAR CRASH AT LAUREL AND FIFTH

Charles Sutton, farmer, Route 2, Brainerd, was a patient in the St. Joseph's hospital with injuries this afternoon following a collision of two cars at 1:15 p. m. at the corner of Laurel and Fifth streets. Sutton's injuries are reported not serious.

Clyde Peterson, 17, 809 Evergreen avenue, driving the car of Knute Anderson, Brainerd, told highway officers who investigated the crash that he was travelling west on Laurel street when Sutton drove in front of him. Peterson complained that Sutton failed to heed the stop sign at Laurel when he approached from the south.

Both cars were considerably damaged. Peterson was uninjured. Sutton was removed to the hospital by Henry Mills.

END OF WEEK TO SEE MINIMUM CREDIT POOL FUND RAISED

REPORTS RECEIVED AT WHITE HOUSE INDICATE EXCELLENT PROGRESS

Washington, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—President Hoover has received reports indicating his $500,000,000 banking credit pool is making excellent progress.

The plan has met with almost universal support from the banking world, according to reports at the White House.

The minimum required fund for the project is expected to be raised before the end of the week, it was said.

These reports were received by the president in private White House conference last Saturday night and Sunday with Chairman Reynolds and President Buckner of the credit corporation.

The pool is working through the clearing house in obtaining subscriptions from banks.

In states which have no clearing houses such as Iowa, state organizations are being set up rapidly, it was explained.

LAVAL TO TAKE LEAD IN MEET

Souvenir Hunters Damage Edison's Birthplace

Milan, O., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Souvenir hunters have become so numerous around the birthplace of the late Thomas A. Edison that a police guard was requested today by Miss Marietta Wadsworth, a cousin and tenant of the "little red brick house on Choate Street."

Miss Wadsworth said the property has been damaged by the invasion of the curio seekers. Village authorities were completing plans for establishing the guard.

CREW OF FREIGHTER LEAPS TO SAFETY AS SHIP SETTLES BY BOW

HEAVILY LADEN CITY OF STAMFORD SINKS IN 30 FEET OF WATER IN EAST RIVER

New York, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—The Long Island Sound freighter City of Stamford, heavily laden with a miscellaneous cargo and carrying a crew of 24 men, sank in the East river today.

The crew was rescued.

There were conflicting reports as to the cause of the sinking. One was that the vessel had struck a submerged rock 100 feet north of Welfare Island and had suffered a bad break in the hull below the water line. Another was that a sand scow had swung into the prow of the vessel and stove in the hull.

The piercing blast of the steamer's whistle told the harbor of its distress and several tugs and smaller boats put out from shore to the rescue. Some of the tug put lines aboard the sinking vessel and hauled it to a point in the river where the water was 30 feet deep as compared with the 90 where the accident happened.

The vessel settled to the bottom, the top of the pilot house and the smokestacks showing above the surface of the water.

A dredge tender was one of the first to reach the side of the sinking vessel. The crew of the City of Stamford leaped to the deck of the Tom Martin as the stricken ship settled rapidly by the bow. In keeping with the tradition of the sea Capt. George Munson was the last to leave the City of Stamford.

FRENCH PREMIER TO ASK AUTHORIZATION FROM HIS CABINET

ALL NATIONS INTERESTED IN WAR DEBTS, INCLUDING GERMANY, TO BE INVITED

Paris, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—A conference of nations interested in reparations, including Germany, was expected today to be one of the first suggestions by Premier Pierre Laval when he returns to France.

French observers believed Senator Borah gave the lead to reparations revisionists throughout Europe when he talked with French correspondents in Washington. The conference they expected Laval to suggest would decide the extent of possible reparations cuts and devise a scheme to substitute for the Hoover moratorium.

It was predicted Laval would ask the cabinet to authorize the conference when he reports on his trip to Washington and that the meeting might be held here in November or December.

The premier's conversations with President Hoover were expected to have far reaching repercussions in European politics. Senator Borah's statement revived German agitation for revision of the Polish corridor and was followed by Italian Premier Benito Mussolini's fervent plea for revision of the peace treaties at Naples, which the French press called "violent."

The French feared the new British government would join the revisionists with the argument that revision of reparations would bring back British prosperity and restore the value of the pound sterling.

Britain appeared to be veering toward the view that security, disarmament, and financial stability through maintaining the gold standard constituted a single problem and should not be treated singly.

Some quarters believed that increased pressure would be brought upon France by England, Germany, and Italy to abandon her thesis of security before disarmament. It was noted that the visit to Berlin of Italian Foreign Minister Dino Grandi coincided with the revision speech made by Mussolini at Naples.

Aboard Ile de France, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Smiling his satisfaction and beaming his appreciation of America, Premier Pierre Laval sailed on the French liner Ile de France from New York at 5:30 o'clock this morning, carrying to France what some regard as the greatest diplomatic victories any returning statesman has taken to Paris since Napoleon's time.

M. Laval, in discussing his Washington resumé, made no effort to hide his complete satisfaction. He has scored a complete victory in French opinion because he came out of the conversations without having made a single sacrifice. His force in parliament has been greatly strengthened. He frankly expects to find his majority increased from 40 to 70 or more.

Of outstanding importance to France is the pledge of President Hoover that America will make no further interventions in favor of a moratorium on German reparations payments. Of great importance was the decision to unite French and American efforts to maintain the integrity of the gold standard.

JAP ULTIMATUM TO CHINESE DEMANDS BRIDGE REPAIRS

JAPANESE CLAIM BOMBING WAS STARTED BY CHINESE TROOPS

Tokio, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Japanese Consul Shimizu at Tientsin, Manchuria, issued an ultimatum to Chinese authorities today that unless a bridge over the Nonni river is repaired within a week the Japanese army will "take effective measures."

The bridge was damaged last week by bombs dropped from Japanese war planes. The Japanese claimed the bombing was started by Chinese troops who fired on the planes while stationed at the bridge.

The ultimatum was sent to heads of Helunkiang province.

Announcement of the ultimatum was coincident with reports from numerous sources here that Tokio and Moscow have reached a silent agreement regarding Japan's activities northward from Changchun. The rumor followed a previous report from Mukden, capital of Manchuria, that loyal Chinese troops were being armed by Soviet agents.

MAJOR POINTS CALL FOR RE- DUCTION OF FARM PRODUC- TION AND FIXING PRICES

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Governor Floyd B. Olson today advanced his long awaited program of farm relief before a conference of representatives of more than a dozen farm organization leaders.

The two major points, Olson emphasized, included reduction of farm production and operation expenses and regulation by law of the prices the farmer receives for his products.

To attain these ends, Minnesota's farmer-labor executive advocated a series of legislative acts which will:

Provide a state income tax;
Reduce taxable values of farm and city homesteads by a third and replace tax revenues lost this way with the income tax;

Reduce the interest rate on farm loans by the state from 5 1/2 per cent to 3 1/2 per cent;

Obtain money to allow this reduction from the federal government;

Abatement of delayed tax payments by farmers;

Recommendation to the federal congress that it adopt McNary-Haugen bill;

Selling of surplus wheat at prices low enough for livestock feed;

Presentation to starving Chinese of large amounts of surplus wheat.

Taxes and interest, Olson said, are at present the farmer's chief costs of production. To relieve this burden, he suggested the income tax to replace part of the levy now made on real property.

The proposed tax would also aid the city dweller, Olson said.

"Farmers now pay taxes on an assessed value, which is a third of the full and true value, while the city home owner pays on an assessed value which is 40 per cent of the full value," Olson said.

"The income tax would enable the state to cut a third off this rate, making the farmer pay on about 22 per cent of the true value of his property and the city home owner on about 27 per cent."

This reduction, Olson said, would apply only to homesteads and would encourage home owning.

The reduction would be amply met by the income tax, Olson said, he had learned from the state tax commission. The change in tax plans also would reduce governmental expenditures generally, since costs would have to be reduced to meet reduction in revenue.

Olson said that when congress opens in November he will ask President Hoover and congress to authorize the loans of some $34,000,000 to Minnesota at one per cent interest to be used for the purpose of lowering the interest on farm loans.

HOOVER SAYS INDEPENDENCE CANNOT BE GRANTED PHIL- IPPINES AT THIS TIME

Washington, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—President Hoover, talking to newspapermen at his regular bi-weekly press conference today, said that Philippine independence cannot be granted until economic independence and governmental stability of the islands can be assured.

"Independence has at some time been promised by every president and every congress," Mr. Hoover said. "The problem is one of time."

From the standpoint of the islands, he said, the durability of their independence must be established before it can be accepted.

Premature independence without such assurances would result in a collapse of all the islands, he said.

The Hoover statement was accepted as an indication that he as well as the cabinet does not believe the time for independence has yet come.

Military Funeral for Army Gridiron Hero

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Cadet Richard E. Sheridan whose death followed an Army-Yale battle on the football field, will be buried with all the honors of a soldier fallen in war.

The military funeral on the windswept bluffs overlooking the Hudson will be Wednesday at 4 P. M., accompanied by the martial splendor of Dick Sheridan's fellow cadets in their army blue.

There will be a short service in the chapel as she requested. Then the cadet corps will bury their comrade's body in the academy burial ground where it will rest near that of General George Custer, Richard C. Anderson of Fort Sumter, General George Goethals, and General Winfield Scott with whom Grant served in Mexico.

ALL NATIONS INTERESTED IN WAR DEBTS, INCLUDING GER- MANY, TO BE INVITED

Paris, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—A conference of nations interested in reparations, including Germany, was expected today to be one of the first suggestions by Premier Pierre Laval when he returns to France.

French observers believed Senator Borah gave the lead to reparations revisionists throughout Europe when he talked with French correspondents in Washington. The conference they expected Laval to suggest would decide the extent of possible reparations cuts and devise a scheme to substitute for the Hoover moratorium.

It was predicted Laval would ask the cabinet to authorize the conference when he reports on his trip to Washington and that the meeting might be held here in November or December.

The premier's conversations with President Hoover were expected to have far reaching repercussions in European politics. Senator Borah's statement revived German agitation for revision of the Polish corridor and was followed by Italian Premier Benito Mussolini's fervent plea for revision of the peace treaties at Naples, which the French press called "violent."

The French feared the new British government would join the revisionists with the argument that revision of reparations would bring back British prosperity and restore the value of the pound sterling.

Britain appeared to be veering toward the view that security, disarmament, and financial stability through maintaining the gold standard constituted a single problem and should not be treated singly.

Some quarters believed that increased pressure would be brought upon France by England, Germany, and Italy to abandon her thesis of security before disarmament. It was noted that the visit to Berlin of Italian Foreign Minister Dino Grandi coincided with the revision speech made by Mussolini at Naples.

Aboard Ile de France, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Smiling his satisfaction and basking his appreciation of America, Premier Pierre Laval sailed on the French liner Ile de France from New York at 5:30 o'clock this morning, carrying to France what some regard as the greatest diplomatic victories any returning statesman has taken to Paris since Napoleon's time.

M. Laval, in discussing his Washington results, made no effort to hide his complete satisfaction. He has scored a complete victory in French opinion because he came out of the conversations without having made a single sacrifice. His force in parliament has been greatly strengthened. He frankly expects to find his majority increased from 40 to 70 or more.

Of outstanding importance to France is the pledge of President Hoover that America will make no further interventions in favor of a moratorium on German reparations payments. Of great importance was the decision to unite French and American efforts to maintain the integrity of the gold standard.

JAP ULTIMATUM TO CHINESE DEMANDS BRIDGE REPAIRS

JAPANESE CLAIM BOMBING WAS STARTED BY CHINESE TROOPS

Tokio, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Japanese Consul Shimizu at Tsitsihar, Manchuria, issued an ultimatum to Chinese authorities today that unless a bridge over the Nonni river is repaired within a week the Japanese army will "take effective measures."

The bridge was damaged last week by bombs dropped from Japanese war planes. The Japanese claimed the bombing was started by Chinese troops who fired on the planes while stationed at the bridge.

The ultimatum was sent to heads of Heilungkiang province.

Announcement of the ultimatum was coincident with reports from numerous sources here that Tokio and Moscow have reached a silent agreement regarding Japan's activities northward from Changchun. The rumors followed a previous report from Mukden, capital of Manchuria, that loyal Chinese troops were being armed by Soviet agents.

ENCORE DEMANDS GREET LOMBARDI CONCERT NUMBERS

POPULAR PROGRAM ATTENDED
BY LARGE NUMBER: ARTISTS
GET WARM APPLAUSE

A packed assemblage greeted the Lombardi concert last evening in the Elks Hall when Maestro Luigi Lombardi presented his group of artists to Brainerd music lovers under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary band.

The program was thoroughly pleasing and elaborate in selection of numbers for the soloists and for the quintet ensemble of chamber music.

The audience responded enthusiastically with sincere appreciation for the fine program offered.

Special mention is to be made of the perfect ensemble of the instrumental group which played three selections and three encores in an artistic way.

Madame Ada Lombardi, as piano soloist, gave a brilliant interpretation of Chopin's scherzo in B flat major. This difficult number was performed by Madame Lombardi in a truly consummate artistry. She is well known as an interpreter, especially of Chopin, Beethoven and Liszt. She was warmly applauded and played an encore, "Nuptial March" by Grieg.

Miss Florence Essen was the violin soloist. She more than pleased the audience with her finished technique in her number "A La Zigara" by Wianowski. She, too, was forced to give an encore and played "Frasquita" by Kreisler.

An unexpected treat was given the audience by Mrs. Florence Downham, operatic contralto from the Twin Cities. Maestro Lombardi could not have presented to Brainerd a better contralto voice and everyone in the audience enjoyed the group of operatic arias and American songs, which she sang with deep conception of each phrase. Mrs. Downham has a melodious, flexible and high contralto voice which she uses with infinite care to detail and expression. She responded to the enthusiastic applause of the audience by a fourth number as an encore.

The inclusion of the Brainerd Ladies Choral Club under the direction of Miss Effie Drexler was an appreciated addition to the program. It was regretted that the chorus sang only one number, as the ensemble and the color of all voices were unusually good. The instrumental quintet gave a proper support to the voices. The number performed by the chorus was the beautiful "Reve Angelique, Seraphic song" by Rubenstein.

The demonstration given last night to the artists presented by Lombardi is a proof of the esteem in which their work is appreciated by Brainerd people.

Lombardi stated he sincerely appreciated the splendid cooperation that Brainerd people have given him to carry out successfully his appearances in this city.

He made mention of the fact that he and the artists of his group feel justly proud and greatly inspired in playing to a Brainerd audience which in Mr. Lombardi's opinion includes a large and selected nucleus of music lovers of the highest type.

"It is gratifying to note the large list of local sponsors whose public spirited sentiment and financial aid have made possible the appearance of Lombardi concerts," he said.

CROW WING COUNTY FORESTS--

Conservation of our forests is an important undertaking and they are coming back. Guarded by United States foresters and state rangers and the folks whose homes would be endangered, fires are being held in check. Nature does the rest.

Located as we are in the heart of Minnesota's 10,000 lake region, Brainerd and Crow Wing county must not underestimate the value of our resources in timber. In this connection, an editorial in The Duluth News-Tribune appears particularly timely. In reproducing it herewith The Daily Dispatch believes that it deserves to attract the attention of persons wherever the forests mean as much to a community as they do in this section.

Some of the land now growing trees eventually will be cleared for farms, The News-Tribune goes on. It will grow grasses and grains and roots.

Some of it never will become farms. Swamps, unprofitable to drain; sandy areas, too light for profitable cultivation, and fertile soils in which there are too many rocks—these will stay in timber.

The owner may get less for the timber than for cultivated crops from equal areas. An acre that would produce forty bushels of wheat may produce only a cord of wood, worth on the stump, perhaps, not more than a dollar. That is small income from an acre.

But the wheat would be shipped out largely. Its first value would be all that the community would get out of it. Even ground into flour, its return to the community would be not greatly enhanced.

The tree must be felled, transported to the mill and made into lumber or paper or toothpicks or matches or backs for hairbrushes that will urge mothers' sons into ways of righteousness.

The cord of wood, before it leaves the community may require labor that will cost twenty dollars or fifty dollars or even a hundred. That money will be added to the community income as surely as would the price of butterfat produced from grass grown on land laboriously cleared.

The courage of the Ironton policeman, who when a bandit's attention was diverted socked him on the jaw and took him into custody, deserves commendation. Bearding a vicious character without a proper opening is not to be considered but the Ironton peace officer's ability to be alert to the opportunity to take his man is pleasant news indeed.

THE CAPONE PHENOMENON--

An excellent example of the confusion in which modern society moves was provided the other day by a newspaper story which announced that a "Capone fund" is being collected in Chicago to help pay the expenses which criminal court litigation has brought on the gang leader.

According to this story, $50,000 a week is being raised so that Capone can keep on fighting to stay out of prison. The money comes from the speakeasies, and is obtained by the simple process of boosting the price of liquor.

And out of this arises confusion. The overwhelming majority of Chicago's citizens, undoubtedly, are genuinely glad that the government has finally been able to drag Capone into court and convict him of a crime. He is about to get a small slice of what is coming to him, and they are pleased. In the capacity of private citizens, these people are on the side of law and order.

But a great many of them have another capacity—as speak-easy customers. And in that capacity they are actually contributing to the fund which the gangster is using in his fight to escape punishment. They want to see the man sent to prison, but they patronize beer flats supplied by his organization—and, as a result, are helping to fill his war chest.

Could there be a better example of the chaotic state in which civic consciousness finds itself today?

Capone is a menace to decent government—a jeer in the face of every man who believes that a great city can govern itself properly.

Yet he exists, not because the arch-fiend went on the loose and raised a horrendous spectre to dismay us, but simply because a large part of the electorate wants something that only he, or someone like him, can supply.

He is a product, in other words, of what American society is today. The evil that he represents will never be wholly abated—no matter what happens to him individually—until American society has somehow emerged from the confusion that just now befalls it.

BUILDING AIR GIANTS--

News that the Navy Department has ordered the Goodyear-Zeppelin people to go ahead with the construction of a sister dirigible to the giant Akron emphasizes the fact that this new ship will cost only about one-half as much as the Akron cost.

The Akron cost in the neighborhood of $5,000,000. The new ship will run to only about $2,450,000. The savings come because construction facilities are now fully available, methods of design and building have been more fully developed and the workers themselves are more familiar with their job.

All of this indicates that if the time ever comes when whole fleets of dirigibles are required—for transatlantic commercial service, or for war—the price of each ship can be still further reduced. Everything considered, it is amazing that a ship the size of the Akron can be built for less than two and a half millions.

RAILROAD RELIEF--

Just what the ultimate effects of the Interstate Commerce Commission's refusal to grant a flat 15 per cent boost in railway freight rates may be is not yet clear. There is probably more than an outside chance, however, that the railroad brotherhoods will presently be hearing about it.

When the rate increase was first proposed, it was common talk that the railroads, if the proposal were rejected, would promptly open discussions with the brotherhood leaders looking toward extensive wage reductions.

This talk may have been utterly groundless. Nevertheless, some such action would not be in the least surprising to men familiar with the situation. The railroads need relief. It may be unfortunate if they look for it in wage reductions—but it need not be unexpected.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Then old MRS. JUPITER is robbed and murdered during the banquet party she gives for her secretary, MARY HARRISON. MRS. JUPITER's son, EDIE, is supposed to have been up stairs at the murder hour. Only Mary knows this.

Mary's fiancé, DICK HUYTHOR, refuses to keep still about having arranged to admit Eddie to the party. He wants to tell the police. But he has had a change of mind. He has had a change of mind. He has had a change of mind.

Dick oversteps and drives Mary to the rendezvous. Eddie is killed by a car as he crosses the street. It is murder about a fly before a die. Weeks pass and INSPECTOR KANE drops the case, believing Eddie the murderer. When Mary protests, Kane tells her both MRS. JUPITER and Dick were the snare.

Leaving the police station Mary meets Bowen, who tells her there is a racketeer gambler called THE FLY to whom her brother owed a large sum of money.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

MARY gave her promise readily enough. She was thoroughly piqued at Kane anyhow, and grateful to Bowen. Apparently he was the only person besides herself who cared enough to dig up the truth about her brother's death. Even if his interest was partly selfish, she was grateful to him just the same. In the present sore state of her feelings, if he did not want Kane to know what he was doing, she would gladly comply.

Bowen seemed pleased by her trust in him, and his eyes began to glitter with the zeal of the news-hound hot on the trail.

"I think we're on the track of something," he told her, "but let me tell you this, my dear girl, before we go any further—if I don't keep our mouths pretty tight shut, we take a chance of getting what Eddie got. If we go after this guy to win, we've got to play a canny game. How's your nerve?"

"I don't know," Mary faltered. "I never tried anything like this before."

"Well, we'll have plenty of time to think of that later," Bowen brushed it away, sorry for having aroused her fears. That might be a tactical error. Better leave her in ignorance of the danger, perhaps, or she might weaken and spoil the whole show.

"What I want to find out now is—" He broke off as the fearsome-looking waiter came to take their plates away. Bowen sat thoughtfully turning a salt-cracker in his fingers. "Mike," he said, suddenly, "sit down a minute, will you?"

With an apprehensive glance toward the kitchen, Mike sat down bonelessly on the edge of the chair.

Mary became aware of a stale and unpleasant odor as of yesterday's food caught in the folds of his greasy black coat, and radiating from him like an aura. But she did not flinch. If she were going to play Bowen's game she must not show the white feather merely because a waiter neglected to wash.

"Look here, Mike," Bowen lowered his voice. "I want to get the lowdown on a crook known as The Fly. Ever hear of him?"

Mike thought, then shook his head.

"You can talk in front of this lady. She's O. K.," Bowen reassured him. "We've got a little private vendetta on this lady and I, Kane flopped on it, and we're going out after this bird ourselves. That is, if he's still around town. That's where we want you to help us."

THE waiter's expression remained inscrutable. Mary thought his eyes held a gleam of interest as he looked her over carefully, but she could not be sure. No doubt he had plenty of reason to hate the pompous Inspector, and it was clear that he and Bowen were on a friendly footing.

"I think maybe—he's dead," he offered after a bit.

"Dead? When? How long ago?" Bowen asked excitedly.

"Oh, long time. Maybe 10 years," he replied.

"But for a moment, 'Not this guy! He was very tall, taller than you are, and he had a very long nose. Did you know him? Sure you got the name right? Fly?" He looked about vainly for a specimen of the species by way of illustration. Finding none, he gave an imitation of a soaring insect, ending with a fatal smacking of his palms together.

Mike giggled appreciatively. "Sure, sure!" he said.

"Where did you know him, up in the Big House?"

Mike shook his head.

"Would you know him if you saw him? Would he know you?"

"Maybe. I dunno."

"What was his name? Do you remember?"

Mike considered.

"I forgot. His name The Fly. That's all I know."

"What was he up for, house-breaking, or what?"

Here the waiter's phlegmatic manner broke and he became excited.

"You better lay off that guy, he is a tough egg!" he warned.

"Ever—kill anybody?" Bowen asked quietly.

"Plenty. They not catch him for it. He is smart guy. Good lawyers, lotsa dough. Yeah!"

A depressed silence held his two hearers. Encouraged, Mike continued to build up the man's reputation. Though his tone was one of deep scorn, his admiration was plain. It was the humble craftsman praising the artist.

"They pull him in two, three times—the District Attorney go for him. They get nothing on him. They can't hold him. Always he goes free! Ah, he is a bad guy, that one! Yeah!"

Bowen stirred, stretched, yawned, gave every evidence of dismissing the subject. Following his lead, Mary withdrew her fascinated gaze from the waiter's sombre countenance, which had gleamed for a few scant moments with genuine emotion, and made preparations to go. Mike jumped up.

"Oh, by the way," Bowen called, "you remember what you were talking to me about the other day, Mike? Well, I've got it all fixed for you. Give you a letter in a day or two, and you take it up to Shay and he'll fix you up. Nice place, that 'speak' of his. Got this dump beat a mile."

The waiter's face crinkled with pleasure.

He bowed rapidly from the waist. "Yeah? Yeah? Good boy! You come up and see me when I am up there." He included Mary in his nod of invitation. Mary smiled. How changed he was, when he was like this, from the gloomy, suspicious man he had seemed at first!

Did it matter so much to him, then, just a job in another speakeasy? She judged this was what Bowen had arranged for him.

BOWEN laid his change on the bill, and handed it to Mike, who refused it handsomely. Bowen insisted.

"I'll tell you what you can do for me, if that's the way you feel," he said. "Keep your ears open up at Shay's—you're liable to hear something. Shay's is The Fly's old stamping ground. I hear, if he's still in town you'll see him around there, unless he's hiding out. All I want you to do is tip me off if you see him—I want to get a look at him sometime."

Mike showed signs of distress.

"You bring the cops?" he asked fearfully.

"No, no, no! Mike, have I ever pulled a fast one on you? Well, you can trust me, you know that."

Mike said "Sure, sure," and appeared reassured. He looked curiously at Mary. "What he do?" he asked interestedly.

Bowen looked solemnly at Mary.

"He did this lady a very great wrong," he said impressively. The strange little man's eyes rested on her, glittering with interest. Mary's cheeks grew warm. What was to become of her?

She reflected that it was probably better to let him draw what inference he would than tell him too much about her affairs.

"You not find him for Kane?" he asked suspiciously.

"Not!" Bowen denied for her.

"And if Kane finds out about this, I'll beat your head off! He'd gum the works—if he hasn't done so already."

They glanced through the clouded glass of the high front windows at a leaden sky which still dripped rain.

"Ever play the horses, Mike?" Bowen asked, casually.

Mike spread his hands. "Some times. No good. I lose much money."

"I see you have. Ever hear of a horse called La Mosca?"

"La Mosca? The Fly—eh?"

"You've got the idea."

"No, that is a new one."

"Never mind. How would you like to go down to the tracks—when's your day off? Friday?" Bowen took out his wallet, extracted from it two ten-dollar bills, and a five, and shoved them across the table. "I hope the office covers me on this. If they don't I'll be around eating off you, Mike, till payday."

But Mike was retreating from the proffered money as if it were fire.

"Listen, this is on the level!" Bowen protested. "Take it. You don't have to do a thing but play the horses, and keep your ear peeled."

"Yeah? What I do?"

MIKE drew the money toward him, pocketed it in one swift movement, and listened hard.

"Find out where the Fly is. He won't be around the tracks, probably, but he's been there lately, and they'll know where to find him. They all know me down there. They wouldn't tell me, and they can smell a dick a mile away. But you can nose around and get the low-down where I'd get the boot, and maybe a bullet in the gizzard. See?"

Mike nodded.

"Also, you might find out who owns this La Mosca filly. May be just a hunch of mine, but it strikes me funny—You go down, Mike, and I'll be around and buzz you on it; see what you find out."

"O. K.," said Mike.

"And be careful. Remember we haven't got anything on this guy—yet. But we're going to have. And when we get him we're going to get him right. So watch your step. He thinks he's safe as a church, so you're in no danger, unless your foot slips."

There was a moment's pregnant silence. Mike turned his back on Mary and leaning toward Bowen poured out a flood of rapid whispering.

"Hey, wait—take it slow!" Bowen objected. When the snake-like hissing subsided the reporter relaxed and waved him away.

"Oh, no, no, no!" he answered, "that's all right. Well, see you Saturday. Don't forget what I told you."

The waiter bowed deeply to Mary, in unexpected fashion, and scuttled away.

"What did he say?" Mary asked fearfully, unable to restrain her curiosity.

"He was apologizing because he was unable to do the job for us—bump him off."

"Oh, good heavens!" Mary gasped. "He said he would be charmed to oblige a lady, but reminded me that he was not available for that sort of thing now. The Daumes' laws, you know. Fourth time and out. If he gets in trouble once more, he goes to prison for life."

Mary laughed from sheer nervousness.

It was still raining, but they were both anxious to get out of the place. Never had fresh air smelled so sweet.

"I'll get you a taxi," Bowen offered, but Mary shook her head.

"I'll take the bus at the corner."

"Sorry I haven't an umbrella for you. Take this, anyhow—I'll keep you dry getting on and off, and you can give it to one of the flunkies when you're done with it. It's none of mine."

Mary looked down at the coat he laid over her arm. It was an English make, well worn. Hastily she opened it and examined it with shaking fingers. Stitches here, where a seam had ripped.

"But—this is my brother Eddie's coat! Where did you find it?" she gasped.

"Why," stammered the startled reporter, "I found it in the upper hall of the Jupiter house that night of the murder. It was hanging over the stair-rail. I thought one of the newspaper men had left it there, so I took it home with me."

Editor of The Brainerd Dispatch:
To the Brainerd city councilmen, and citizens as well.
Of Brainerd, Minn., the truth I want to tell,
For I'm sure you have been misinformed, by letter
Or by phone, with regard to beds and board you know,
At the "Old Folks City Home."
The Home it is located on 4th Ave. and D street.

It is beautiful for situation, with lawns and shade complete
With a big wide porch on every side,
Soft chairs for every one,
Where one may sit any time of day,
And be free from the hot sun.

And then they have four splendid cows, the best I've ever seen.
And lots of good whole milk to drink,
And also much ice cream,
The matron knows how to make it, on the east porch shaded floor,
And every dish we eat of it, it seems to taste like more.

In the morning we have breakfast food, pancakes with eggs galore
And creamery butter and jellies too,
And doughnuts in great store,
And all kinds of dill pickles, and also pickles sweet,

To my humble way of thinking, such fair is hard to beat.
At noon we always have fresh meat,
And vegetables not a few,
And all other things to match you know, I like them so would you,
And then the food is all well cooked, neat, clean and epic and span.

To tempt the appetite you know, of women or of man,
I can't tell you if I should try, of all the things we have to eat
Of frosted cake and pumpkin pie, and jellies and jams sweet,
We have baked chicken three times a year, on three big holidays
Kind friends please do not censure, but we don't ask for praise.

My room, it only has one bed, and that on the ground floor.
Some great big rooms have two or three, I know they have no more
And better beds you cannot find, please show one if you can.
And now I wish you happiness,
Yours truly,
H. H. MANN.

CROW WING COUNTY FORESTS—

Conservation of our forests is an important undertaking and they are coming back. Guarded by United States foresters and state rangers and the folks whose homes would be endangered, fires are being held in check. Nature does the rest.

Located as we are in the heart of Minnesota's 10,000 lake region, Brainerd and Crow Wing county must not underestimate the value of our resources in timber. In this connection, an editorial in The Duluth News-Tribune appears particularly timely. In reproducing it herewith The Daily Dispatch believes that it deserves to attract the attention of persons wherever the forests mean as much to a community as they do in this section.

Some of the land now growing trees eventually will be cleared for farms. The News-Tribune goes on. It will grow grasses and grains and roots.

Some of it never will become farms. Swamps, unprofitable to drain; sandy areas, too light for profitable cultivation, and fertile soils in which there are too many rocks—these will stay in timber.

The owner may get less for the timber than for cultivated crops from equal areas. An acre that would produce forty bushels of wheat may produce only a cord of wood, worth on the stump, perhaps, not more than a dollar. That is small income from an acre.

But the wheat would be shipped out largely. Its first value would be all that the community would get out of it. Even ground into flour, its return to the community would be not greatly enhanced.

The tree must be felled, transported to the mill and made into lumber or paper or toothpicks or matches or backs for hair-brushes that will urge mothers' sons into ways of righteousness.

The cord of wood, before it leaves the community may require labor that will cost twenty dollars or fifty dollars or even a hundred. That money will be added to the community income as surely as would the price of butterfat produced from grass grown on land laboriously cleared.

The courage of the Ironton policeman, who when a bandit's attention was diverted socked him on the jaw and took him into custody, deserves commendation. Bearding a vicious character without a proper opening is not to be considered but the Ironton peace officer's ability to be alert to the opportunity to take his man is pleasant news indeed.

THE CAPONE PHENOMENON—

An excellent example of the confusion in which modern society moves was provided the other day by a newspaper story which announced that a "Capone fund" is being collected in Chicago to help pay the expenses which criminal court litigation has brought on the gang leader.

According to this story, $50,000 a week is being raised so that Capone can keep on fighting to stay out of prison. The money comes from the speakies, and is obtained by the simple process of boosting the price of liquor.

And out of this arises confusion.

The overwhelming majority of Chicago's citizens, undoubtedly, are genuinely glad that the government has finally been able to drag Capone into court and convict him of a crime. He is about to get a small slice of what is coming to him, and they are pleased. In the capacity of private citizens, these people are on the side of law and order.

But a great many of them have another capacity—as speak-easy customers. And in that capacity they are actually contributing to the fund which the gangster is using in his fight to escape punishment. They want to see the man sent to prison, but they patronize beer flats supplied by his organization—and, as a result, are helping to fill his war chest.

Could there be a better example of the chaotic state in which civic consciousness finds itself today?

Capone is a menace to decent government—a jeer in the face of every man who believes that a great city can govern itself properly.

Yet he exists, not because the arch-fiend went on the loose and raised a horrendous spectre to dismay us, but simply because a large part of the electorate wants something that only he, or someone like him, can supply.

He is a product, in other words, of what American society is today. The evil that he represents will never be wholly abated—no matter what happens to him individually—until American society has somehow emerged from the confusion that just now befalls it.

BUILDING AIR GIANTS—

News that the Navy Department has ordered the Goodyear-Zeppelin people to go ahead with the construction of a sister-ship will cost only about one-half as much as the Akron cost.

The Akron cost in the neighborhood of $5,000,000. The new ship will run to only about $2,450,000. The savings come because construction facilities are now fully available, methods of design and building have been more fully developed and the workers themselves are more familiar with their job.

All of this indicates that if the time ever comes when whole fleets of dirigibles are required—for transatlantic commercial service, or for war—the price of each ship can be still further reduced. Everything considered, it is amazing that a ship the size of the Akron can be built for less than two and a half millions.

RAILROAD RELIEF—

Just what the ultimate effects of the Interstate Commerce Commission's refusal to grant a flat 15 per cent boost in railway freight rates may be is not yet clear. There is probably more than an outside chance, however, that the railroad brotherhoods will presently be hearing about it.

When the rate increase was first proposed, it was common talk that the railroads, if the proposal were rejected, would promptly open discussions with the brotherhood leaders looking toward extensive wage reductions.

This talk may have been utterly groundless. Nevertheless, some such action would not be in the least surprising to men familiar with the situation. The railroads need relief. It may be unfortunate if they look for it in wage reductions—but it need not be unexpected.

Then old MRS. JUPITER is robbed and murdered during the robbery party she gives for her secretary, MARY HARKNESS. Mary's suspenseful brother, ED-IE, is supposed to have been up- stairs at the murder hour. Only Mary knows this.

Next comes DIK RUTHER, who has been kept still about having arranged to admit Eddie to the street. He mumbles about a fly before he dies. Weeks pass and INSPECTOR KANE drops the case, believing Eddie the murderer. When Mary protests, Kane tells her both MRS. JUPITER and Dik believe the same.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

There was a moment's pregnant silence. Mike turned his back on Mary and leaning toward Bowen poured out a flood of rapid whispering.

"Hey, wait—take it slow!" Bowen objected. When the snake-like hissing subsided the reporter relaxed and waved him away.

"Oh, no, no, no!" he answered. "That's all right. Well, see you Saturday. Don't forget what I told you."

The waiter bowed deeply to Mary, in unexpected fashion, and scuttled away.

"What did he say?" Mary asked fearfully, unable to restrain her curiosity.

"He was apologizing because he was unable to do the job for us—bump him!"

"Oh, good heavens!" Mary gasped. "He said he would be charmed to oblige a lady, but reminded me that he was not available for that sort of thing now. The Daumes laws, you know. Fourth time out. If he gets in trouble once more, he goes to prison for life."

Mary laughed from sheer nervousness.

It was still raining, but they were both anxious to get out of the place. Never had fresh air smelled so sweet.

"I'll get you a taxi," Bowen offered, but Mary shook her head.

"I'll take the bus at the corner."

"Sorry I haven't an umbrella for you. Take this, anyhow—it'll keep you dry getting on and off, and you can give it to one of the flunkies when you're done with it. It's none of mine."

Mary looked down at the coat he laid over her arm. It was an English make, well worn. Hastily she opened it and examined it with shaking fingers. Stitches here, where a seam had ripped.

"But—this is my brother Eddie's coat! Where did you find it?" she gasped.

"Why," stammered the startled reporter, "I found it in the upper hall of the Jupiter house that night of the murder. It was hanging over the stair-rail. I thought one of the newspaper men had left it there, so I took it home with me."

Letters to Editor

P. T. A. THANKS DISPATCH

To the Editor of the Brainerd Dispatch:

We, the members of the executive committee on arrangements for the Parent-Teacher convention, wish to express our appreciation and thanks to you for the splendid cooperation and help extended to us through your paper, also for the programs donated for our Sunday Union services, and the artistic window cards.

We feel your efforts helped greatly in making this convention a success.

Thanking you again,
Members of Executive Committee.

By MRS. A. C. WEBER,
Secretary.

Editor of The Brainerd Dispatch:
To the Brainerd city councilmen, and citizens as well.

Of Brainerd, Minn., the truth I want to tell.

For I'm sure you have been misinformed, by letter

Or by phone, with regard to beds and board you know.

At the "Old Folks City Home."

The Home it is located on 4th Ave. and D street

It is beautiful for situation, with lawns and shade complete

With a big wide porch on every side, soft chairs for every one.

Where one may sit any time of day, and be free from the hot sun.

And then they have four splendid cows, the best I've ever seen.

And lots of good whole milk to drink, and also much ice cream.

The matron knows how to make it, on the east porch shaded floor.

And every dish we eat of it, it seems to taste like more.

In the morning we have breakfast food, pancakes with eggs galore

And creamery butter and jellies too, and doughnuts in great store.

And all kinds of dill pickles, and also pickles sweet.

To my humble way of thinking, such fair is hard to beat.

At noon we always have fresh meat, and vegetables not a few.

And all other things to match you know, I like them so would you.

And then the food is all well cooked, neat, clean and spic and span.

To tempt the appetite you know, of women or of man.

I can't tell you if I should try, of all the things we have to eat

Of frosted cake and pumpkin pie, and jellies and jams sweet.

We have baked chicken three times a year, on three big holidays

Kind friends please do not censure, but we don't ask for praise.

My room, it only has one bed, and that on the ground floor.

Some great big rooms have two or three, I know they have no more

And better beds you cannot find, please show one if you can.

And now I wish you happiness.
Yours truly,
H. H. MANN.

What made him get ahead so fast?

You've seen men like "Mac." Always stepping to bigger jobs. With the energy and good health to realize his ambitions.

So often a promising career is handicapped by constipation. This ailment frequently brings headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Ambition is dulled.

Avoid constipation. Just eat two tablespoons daily of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. This delicious cereal supplies "bulk," Vitamin B and iron.

"Bulk" gently cleanses the intestines. Vitamin B tones them up. Both promote regularity. How much better than pills and drugs.

Enjoy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN as a cereal. Have your wife use it in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BOY TERRORIZES SCHOOL 2 HOURS; RUNS WILD WITH WEAPONS; CASE HEARD HERE

The story of a 13-year-old boy in an uncontrollable rage, running amuck with several weapons and terrorizing the school, he attended east of Brainerd was told by several witnesses at the hearing conducted here Monday afternoon to test the boy's mentality.

Ordered to Hospital

The petition asking for a sanity hearing was brought by the school board. Doctors held the boy was approaching perversity and he was ordered for treatment at the state insane hospital at Fergus Falls by Judge L. B. Kinder.

The boy, according to the witnesses, spread terror to the teacher, 12 pupils, a member of the school board and the boy's mother and was not subdued until the arrival of his father.

Armed With Knife, Clubs, Axe

Witnesses told the following story: The boy's rage was incensed when he was refused permission to ride another pupil's bicycle during the noon hour. Pulling out a pocket knife with a four inch blade the boy chased the pupil into the school house where the teacher was eating her lunch. When he entered the school room he had a knife in one hand and a wooden club in the other. The teacher ordered him to sit and took the stick away from him. The youth then went outside and returned with an iron bar, standing menacingly before the pupils and teacher. A school trustee who was sent for could not disarm him and when the boy's mother appeared the youth had added an axe to his weapons. The boy was quieted by the arrival of his father.

The teacher and pupils told the examiners that the boy held them in terror for two hours.

Doctors were of the opinion that proper treatment would restore the boy to normalcy. The teacher said that he was unusually brilliant in his studies.

Former Case Recalled

The case recalled another one similar that occurred in Brainerd several years ago. In this former case a Brainerd girl displayed tendencies of insanity by a violent temper. At one time she threw knives at her mother. The girl was sent to Fergus Falls where insanity became more marked. She was paroled several times but was returned to the hospital soon after each.

Man Judged Insane

A second hearing to judge the mentality of a person was also conducted by Judge Kinder Monday.

This case dealt with a Bemidji man who came to Brainerd to visit his brother. The visitor displayed tendencies of insanity and violence was prevented by the brother overpowering him and calling the police. The Bemidji man was adjudged insane and ordered to the insane institution at Fergus Falls. Records showed he is a former patient in the insane hospital at Jamestown, N. D.

SEE CHANGE IN GRID RULES AS RESULT OF FATAL ACCIDENT

MAY ELIMINATE USE OF FLYING WEDGE FROM THE KICKOFF

DEATH OF ARMY GRIDDER TO BRING CHANGES IN SEVERAL RULES, IT IS BELIEVED

New York, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Since the early days of collegiate football, when hard scrimmage and absence of open plays resulted in the frequent injury, and sometimes death, of players, there has been a constant tendency to improve the rules, with a view to making the contest more understandable to spectators and less dangerous to players.

Out of the scores of injuries and deaths that have resulted have come regulations designed to better the game from every standpoint. It is not too much to expect that out of the tragic incident in the Yale bowl last Saturday, will come a regulation that will eliminate such a formation as resulted in the fatal injury of Cadet Dick Sheridan.

The intercollegiate football rules committee undoubtedly will make a thorough study of the play in which the accident occurred, and there is little doubt that a new change in the rules will be the result. This change may be one of two things. The rules committee may eliminate the kickoff as a means of opening play, or outlaw the use of a flying wedge of interferers for the player returning the kick-off.

The flying wedge—that play in which the offensive team formed into an inverted V and, with the ball-carriers in the middle, rode into the defensive outfit—was barred years ago. For its toll of life and limb was terrific. But under the present rules it still is possible for such a wedge to form on the kickoff and almost every team uses it every time it receives the ball.

It was such a play that caused Sheridan's injury. Unafraid of anything that walked or flew, Cadet Sheridan threw his 148 pounds into the face of the flying Yale wedge, in an attempt to bring down Halfback Lassiter who was running behind the almost solid wall of interference.

The sooner this formation is done away with the better. Elimination of the kickoff would stop it. Of course, thousands of fans would howl to high heaven if the kickoff was removed. There is always a chance the ball carrier may be shaken loose for a long run. But the thrill isn't worth the injury to a man. And if the flying wedge can't be stopped any other way, why, throw out the kickoff.

Sheridan's death is certain to bring sharp criticism on football. Reformers will insist it is too rough and should be abolished. But these attacks will soon die away. For football, rough though it may be, has developed and built more men than it has ruined. And will continue to do so.

It should be remembered, too, that football is not the only sport that has its dangers. Golf, baseball, tennis, polo, rowing, basketball and most of the rest have their fatalities. Yet you never hear of the reformers calling for the heads of those sports.

CRISLER FINDS LONG SOUGHT BACKFIELD COMBINATION IN GAME WITH HAWKEYES

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Minnesota's backfield combination of MacDougall, Hass, Uhl and Manders, which did effective scoring against Iowa, apparently has settled the make-up of the regular group for the rest of the season. Marshall Wells, tackle, has a wrenched elbow which will keep him out of the Wisconsin game.

Columbus, O., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Forgetting the Northwestern defeat, Ohio State's varsity was to plunge back into hard drill today for Saturday's game with Indiana at Bloomington. Coach Sam Willaman is anxious to turn up some capable reserves for the line which tired badly toward the close of the Northwestern game.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Capt. Smith, tackle, Mickey McGuire, halfback, and Buckets Goldenberg, quarterback, are nursing minor injuries sustained in the Pennsylvania game, but are expected to be ready for Wisconsin's second Big Ten game Saturday against Minnesota.

Reb Russell, plunging fullback who has been injured since the Nebraska game, is expected to return to action Saturday.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Capt. Tom Yarr, Notre Dame center, still has his broken left thumb in a cast and in addition has a cut on his right hand. The Notre Dame regulars were to return to practice today for Saturday's game with Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Coach Bob Zuppke has not given up hope of his young Illinois team turning in at least one upset before the end of the season. Despite the 35-0 loss to Michigan last week, Zuppke told his sophomores yesterday that "I still believe I have a team in the making out of you youngsters." Illinois plays Northwestern Saturday.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Bill Hewitt's excellent work against Illinois last week apparently has won him the regular fullback job on the Michigan eleven and Capt. Roy Hudson probably will be shifted from that post to halfback. The Wolverines play Princeton in the east Saturday.

Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock all eyes will instinctively turn toward the Staples football field and all who can possibly be present will leave what ever they are doing and join the throng making their way to witness the annual contest between the Staples and Wadena high school football teams. Staples and Wadena are rivals of many years.

Both teams are evenly balanced in strength, and a win over Wadena is the crowning achievement of the season.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Major Ralph Sesse was expected to take charge of Army's football practice today in preparation for Saturday's game with Colorado. With Sasse remaining at the bedside of Cadet Sheridan in New Haven, Conn., Assistant Coach Red Blaik supervised yesterday's drill. The football players indulged in a brief session of calisthenics and were not told of Sheridan's death until after practice.

San Francisco, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Max Baer, leading California heavyweight, signed today for a 10-round bout with Johnny Risko, the Cleveland baker, in the Seals stadium here November 9.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—With a victory over Chicago and a tie with Iowa to their credit, the Indiana Hoosiers hope to keep their Big Ten record unblemished against Ohio State's invasion in Saturday's homecoming game.

Iowa City, Iowa, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Iowa has high hopes of scoring its first victory of the season, as well as register its first score, against George Washington here Saturday. Several players are still bruised a bit of the batting at the hands of Minnesota but probably will be back in action Saturday.

Sate Boxing Commission Considers Rule Changes

Minneapolis, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Changes in the Minnesota boxing code intended to abolish unsatisfactory bouts are under consideration by the state boxing commission, it was announced today.

Recommendations including the no-foul rule, designating in the referee the sole right to stop an uneven fight and coordinating a referee's count over a fallen boxer with the timekeeper, will be acted upon at a coming meeting.

Under the no-foul rule, each fight will be required to wear a pneumatic cup protecting the groin and a low blow will not lose a fight. The states of New York, Pennsylvania and 18 others already have adopted the rule.

Throwing into the ring of a towel by seconds of one of the fighters will not stop a fight under another new rule. Only the referee will have the right to stop a bout.

Bear Signs for Bout With Johnny Risko

San Francisco, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Max Baer, leading California heavyweight, signed today for a 10-round bout with Johnny Risko, the Cleveland baker, in the Seals stadium here November 9.

SEE CHANGE IN GRID RULES AS RESULT OF FATAL ACCIDENT

DEATH OF ARMY GRIDDER TO BRING CHANGES IN SEVERAL RULES, IT IS BELIEVED

New York, Oct. 27.—(U.P.)—Since the early days of collegiate football, when hard scrimmage and absence of open plays resulted in the frequent injury, and sometimes death, of players, there has been a constant tendency to improve the rules, with a view to making the contest more understandable to spectators and less dangerous to players.

Out of the scores of injuries and deaths that have resulted have come regulations designed to better the game from every standpoint. It is not too much to expect that out of the tragic incident in the Yale bowl last Saturday, will come a regulation that will eliminate such a formation as resulted in the fatal injury of Cadet Dick Sheridan.

The intercollegiate football rules committee undoubtedly will make a thorough study of the play in which the accident occurred, and there is little doubt that a new change in the rules will be the result. This change may be one of two things. The rules committee may eliminate the kickoff as a means of opening play, or outlaw the use of a flying wedge of interferers for the player returning the kickoff.

The flying wedge—that play in which the offensive team formed into an inverted V and, with the ball-carriers in the middle, rode into the defensive outfit—was barred years ago. For its toll of life and limb was terrific. But under the present rules it still is possible for such a wedge to form on the kickoff and almost every team uses it every time it receives the ball.

DREXEL GEIST ACCEPTS TREE FROM P.T.A. FOR BRAINERD SCHOOL CHILDREN

ROCHESTER TO BE SCENE OF 1932 CONVENTION

The Post Convention Board Meeting Wednesday evening, brought to a close the three-day convention of the Ninth Annual Parent Teacher convention, which Board decided that the 1932 convention be held at Rochester, although Virginia, Hastings, and St. Paul also extended invitations.

All important programs, general sessions, exhibits, health conference, and the main banquet were held in the high school, with several luncheons being served at the churches. The programs and speakers this year were especially excellent.

Miss Tornstrom, in the Assembly Thursday, congratulated the students on their conduct in the halls during the convention. The students were not allowed to talk in the halls, and the first floor classes were the only ones which were disturbed, because the registration tables were on the main floor. Delegates marveled that classes could be carried on while they convened in the building.

Tuesday afternoon the Tree Planting Ceremony, in commemoration of George Washington took place, songs entitled "The Tree of the P. T. A." and "Trees" were rendered by the Mother singers of the State. In a short speech Drexel Geist, representing the children of Brainerd accepted the tree which was presented to them by Mrs. Quenneville of St. Paul for the State of Minnesota. Each district president showed the tree with dirt which they brought from their own districts, expressed as their wish that it might grow strong and tall. The Brainerd P. T. A. recommended to the Central Council that another tree be purchased and be placed at the other corners of the building.

Many students helped during the convention as ushers, messengers, and typists for registration.

Wednesday evening nearly 1,000 delegates and visitors returned to their homes, well pleased with the courtesy and hospitality shown them during their stay in Brainerd.

Poster Contest Won by St. Paul Parents

One of the most interesting activities of the convention was the Parents Poster Contest. St. Paul parents seemed to lead in ability and technique which gave them two places.

The carrying out of the following requirements was effective in the judging of the winning posters, the most important of the rules were:

1. Design to be on a 16 by 24 inch paper.
2. (a) The lettering was to consist of "Minnesota Congress of Parents and Teachers at Brainerd, Minnesota." (b) The slogans "Inspirational, Educational, Informational," were to appear on the poster in a conspicuous place.
3. Abbreviations were not allowed.
4. Neatness and other fundamental rules of good construction were important.

The Tilden Parents Posters that won first place carried out these rules most fully. The Poster consisted of two young children who are looking into a window that had an announcement of the Parents Teachers Association Congress at Brainerd. Each child was holding some books which bore the slogans, "Inspirational, Educational, Informational" the posters done in blue and gold had a very effective appearance.

The second place posters was done in a very effective manner although it didn't have any figures in it consisting of only the necessary lettering in a very neat and effective manner.

Lookin' in Your Lookin' Glass

When you look into your lookin' glass do you see gray hair, big nose, marred complexion, cross eyed, wrinkles, double chin? If you do I have the remedy.

Take a pound of cement, a quart of lime water, some good stiff starch and what have you and put it on your face. You will be surprised and how!

Then for gray hair, I suggest that you take some good strong dye—and dye it. You can have your hair any color—you can even dye it to match each costume—that is what I would do if I were you.

For a double chin, take one of the chins in your hand and hit it once or twice. Oh, well, you can do it any number of times or I'll do it for you. Then take a piece of rope, tie it around the chin and gently force it down and up, and down and up again. Don't do it too fast, however, or you will see it spreading rapidly.

For a bumpy nose put a clothespin on it—that will fix it all right, all right, all right.

Cross-eyes can be cured by uncrossing them easily every night before you retire (Get Fisk's, they are the best), and you will be soon seeing straight once more.

I will give also a solution for wrinkles to all those over sixty absolutely free—if accompanied by their parents.

Sanford Shanks: "I think she's as pretty as she can be."
 Clayton Peterson: "Most girls are."

YE EDITOR

During the State P. T. A. convention held here last week many of the delegates remarked about the manner in which the student body conducted themselves during the congress three day session.

No student was found loitering in the halls or making unnecessary noises but all the classes were carried on in perfect harmony so that many delegates actually had to inquire if school was being held.

The representatives from every part of the state after forming their opinions of our school life will carry them back to their local communities and we shall become a model by which the other schools will adapt themselves.

Let's live up to our newly acquired reputation and carry the spirit on through all school activities.

YE EDITOR.

TRI-HI TO IMPROVE "Y" CLUB ROOM

CANDLE CEREMONY TO BE USED AT TRI-HI INSTALLATION SERVICE

It was decided upon that the last Tri-Hi meeting should be one of discussion, with Elaine Cook, Elizabeth Patterson, and Gady Schubert as leaders. As only a few of the girls responded and took part in the discussion, new ideas were submitted to the club from different members, which would make our meetings more interesting.

Several ideas were brought forward, but one especially seemed to appeal to the girls.

Although the "Y" club has been improved in many ways since the Tri-Hi was first originated four years ago, the girls were very enthused about repairing the furniture and to make the room more comfortable. Different groups of girls will be assigned to various jobs of covering chairs, footstools, painting chairs and tables.

If all the girls put their best efforts into this new idea and go about it with as much enthusiasm as was shown when the idea was brought about Monday night it is quite certain that the room will be very attractive when finished.

Pins for the new members have not yet arrived, which makes it impossible for the installation service, but no time will be wasted after they once come. The candlelight ceremony will be used.

SKOOL SKANDEL

"What is it? What is it? I'm dying to know!" makes them stand at Virginia Riecke's locker and talk to her hours at a time? (I hope it isn't because she's a blond).

Beware, Allan McKay, I happen to know who that sweet, little Freshman girl is with whom you were sharing your slicker at the game Thursday. Strange as it seems the student body as a whole complied with most of the rules for conduct set down during the recent P. T. A. convention. Miss Tornstrom, very much surprised, thanked us promptly.

While pacing the halls in the ecstasy of anticipation I was going to the game that afternoon, I happened upon the following letter in Fritz Reese's own handwriting!

Dear Miss Dix:
 I am sixteen years old, have blue eyes, and medium blond hair. Please tell me how to be popular.

HONOR ROLL

 B
 Esther Kukkola.

JUNIORS
 B

SOPHOMORES
 A
 Eino Freeman, Rla Zierke, Ione Persson.

B

FRESHMEN
 A
 Virginia Crust, Ruby Henricks, Irving Steinfeldt.

B
 Robert Anderson, Millicent Cartwright, Robert Cohen, Madeline Favrou, Margaret Fitzsimmons, Florian Grimstad, Winnifred Johnson, Betty Johnstone, Helen Stout, Ramona Twist, Ethel Warner, Franklin Wright.

The honor roll of the first six weeks has proved to be rather disappointing so far as Juniors and Seniors are concerned. Otherwise it is not to be expected that there would be a great number of students whose grades would be sufficient to win honor privilege during the first six weeks.

The purpose of the honor roll is to encourage higher scholarship by rewarding deserving students with certain privileges. A student who obtains four A's during the six weeks is entitled to the two period a day which would otherwise be assembly periods. A student making two A's with no other grade below B is entitled to one period a day.

Scholarship average is not the only element on which the honor roll is compiled, discipline playing a very important part in the determination of the honor scholars. A student may have grades of very high rank but whose class conduct is very poor. However, this is not likely as good grades and class attentiveness in class go together.

It is to be expected that the honor roll privileges will not be abused by those who have gained them. Every student must report to his assembly room instructor as to the period which they intend to take off. Wandering in he hall is not to be tolerated, and will bring a curtailment of the privileges.

Teachers' Training Notes

Several meetings of the Parent Teacher convention held last week were well attended by the students of the training department. All the evening lectures, Dean Lawrence's address, Dr. Germane's speech on character education and all conferences dealing with rural P. R. A's were attended. The department is very grateful for the splendid opportunities made available through this convention.

While Miss Reid attended the district M. E. A. convention at St. Cloud, Thursday and Friday the students who were not doing practice teaching in town visited various school districts for rural observation.

Florence Roberts and Alice Nolan substituted, Thursday afternoon, for Miss Drexler in the Lincoln; Arthur Van Walk, Darrold Wadsworth for Miss Alsacker in the Lowell; Jean Cass and Jeanette Jacobson assisted Miss Nyquist in Mrs. Linnemann's room at the Lowell.

Several groups are reporting for practice teaching at the Garfield, Lowell and Riverside schools tomorrow.

LITTLE FALLS CONTINUES WINNING STREAK BY DEFEATING WARRIORS 15-0

Grid Sidelights

Did you notice the large squad Dammann took with him?

Although the Little Falls high school had a girls band out dressed up in snappy uniforms they only played one number.

The Brainerd side of the field stayed back of the wires while Little Falls crowded out over the field.

All the dogs on the field, they probably thought they could be football heroes and did you see the one who bit the Little Falls cheer leader.

Why it is that Tom Kocek always gets hurt in the first part of the game?

What makes the Brainerd rooters so silent, although a great many go to a game, only about three out of four people yell?

Did you know that two sets of brothers started the game namely the two Koekes and the Wylges boys?

SENIORS URGED TO PAY FOR RINGS

CLASS UNDECIDED ON KIND OF PICTURE FOLDER

The meeting of the Senior class was held after school Friday in the auditorium. Harold Strickler, president, presided. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mr. Penrose outlined to the class a plan concerning the purchase of rings and pictures. The seniors may pay $3.50 down on their rings and $2.50 on their pictures, which must be ordered before Dec. 1. The remainder on the ring should be paid sometime after Christmas to the secretary or treasurer of the class. He also stressed that due to economic conditions there is no obligation to buy rings.

The three studios, Gorham's, Canan's, and Caniff's, each submitted two folders. The class seemed divided on two of them but after some discussion it was decided none would suit, so the picture committee was told to get some more.

A motion was made and seconded that the class have a picnic with the Juniors. The place, time, etc., is being left up to entertainment committee.

One hundred and one students of Brainerd left school at 2:30 to see the Little Falls game.

ROCHESTER TO BE SCENE OF 1932 CONVENTION

The Post Convention Board Meeting Wednesday evening, brought to a close the three-day convention of the Ninth Annual Parent Teacher convention, which Board decided that the 1932 convention be held at Rochester, although Virginia, Hastings, and St. Paul also extended invitations.

All important programs, general sessions, exhibits, health conference, and the main banquet were held in the high school, with several luncheons being served at the churches. The programs and speakers this year were especially excellent.

Miss Tornstrom, in the Assembly Thursday, congratulated the students on their conduct in the halls during the convention. The students were not allowed to talk in the halls, and the first floor classes were the only ones which were disturbed, because the registration tables were on the main floor. Delegates marveled that classes could be carried on while they convened in the building.

Tuesday afternoon the Tree Planting Ceremony, in commemoration of George Washington, took place, songs entitled "The Tree of the P. T. A." and "Trees" were rendered by the Mother singers of the State. In a short speech Drexel Geist, representing the children of Brainerd accepted the Tree which was presented to them by Mrs. Quamme of St. Paul for the State of Minnesota. Each district president showed the tree with dirt which they brought from their own districts, expressed as their wish that it might grow strong and tall. The Brainerd P. T. A. recommended to the Central Council that another tree be purchased and be placed at the other corners of the building.

Many students helped during the convention as ushers, messengers, and typists for registration.

Wednesday evening nearly 1,000 delegates and visitors returned to their homes, well pleased with the courtesy and hospitality shown them during their stay in Brainerd.

Poster Contest Won by St. Paul Parents

One of the most interesting activities of the convention was the Parents Poster Contest. St. Paul parents seemed to lead in ability and technique which gave them two places.

The carrying out of the following requirements was effective in the judging of the winning posters, the most important of the rules were:

1. Design to be on a 16 by 24 inch paper.
2. (a) The lettering was to consist of "Minnesota Congress of Parents and Teachers at Brainerd, Minnesota."
- (b) The slogans "Inspirational, Educational, Informational," were to appear on the poster in a conspicuous place.
3. Abbreviations were not allowed.
4. Neatness and other fundamental rules of good construction were important.

The Tilden Parents Posters that won first place carried out these rules most fully. The Poster consisted of two young children who are looking into a window that had an announcement of the Parents Teachers Association Congress at Brainerd. Each child was holding some books which bore the slogans, "Inspirational, Educational, Informational" the posters done in blue and gold had a very effective appearance.

The second place posters was done in a very effective manner although it didn't have any figures in it consisting of only the necessary lettering in a very neat and effective manner.

Lookin' in Your Lookin' Glass

When you look into your lookin' glass do you see gray hair, big nose, marred complexion, cross eyed, wrinkles, double chin? If you do I have the remedy.

Take a pound of cement, a quart of lime water, some good stiff starch and what have you and put it on your face. You will be surprised and how!

Then for gray hair, I suggest that you take some good strong dye—and dye it. You can have your hair any color—you can even dye it to match each costume—that is what I would do if I were you.

For a double chin, take one of the chins in your hand and hit it once or twice. Oh, well, you can do it any number of times or I'll do it for you. Then take a piece of rope, tie it around the chin and gently force it down and up, and down and up again. Don't do it too fast, however, or you will see it spreading rapidly.

Cross-eyes can be cured by uncrossing them easily every night before you retire (Get Fisk's, they are the best), and you will be soon seeing straight once more.

I will give also a solution for wrinkles—all to those over sixty absolutely free—if accompanied by their parents.

Sanford Shanks: "I think she's as pretty as she can be."

HONOR ROLL

SENIORS
 Esther Kuikkola.
JUNIORS
 Eino Freeman, Rla Zierke, Ione Persson.
 B
 Cynthia Alexander, Clara Gendron, Marguerite Gustafson, Jane Hill, Jennie Houston, Esther Nelson, Allan Paine, Elizabeth Phillips, Chester Roberts, Lois Wolford.

 A
 Virginia Crust, Ruby Henriks, Irving Steinfeldt.
 B
 Robert Anderson, Millicent Cartwright, Robert Cohen, Madeline Favrou, Margaret Fitzsimmons, Florian Grimstad, Winnifred Johnson, Betty Johnstone, Helen Stout, Ramona Twist, Ethel Warner, Franklin Wright.

The honor roll of the first six weeks has proved to be rather disappointing so far as Juniors and Seniors are concerned. Otherwise it is not to be expected that there would be a great number of students whose grades would be sufficient to win honor privilege during the first six weeks.

The purpose of the honor roll is to encourage higher scholarship by rewarding deserving students with certain privileges. A student who obtains four A's during the six weeks is entitled to the two period a day which would otherwise be assembly periods. A student making two A's with no other grade below B is entitled to one period a day.

Scholarship average is not the only element on which the honor roll is compiled, discipline playing a very important part in the determination of the honor scholars. A student may have grades of very high rank but whose class conduct is very poor. However, this is not likely as good grades and class attentiveness in class go together.

It is to be expected that the honor roll privileges will not be abused by those who have gained them. Every student must report to his assembly room instructor as to the period which they intend to take off. Wandering in he hall is not to be tolerated, and will bring a curtailment of the privileges.

Teachers' Training Notes

Several meetings of the Parent Teacher convention held last week were well attended by the students of the training department. All the evening lectures, Dean Lawrence's address, Dr. Germaine's speech on character education and all conferences dealing with rural P. T. A. were attended. The department is very grateful for the splendid opportunities made available through this convention.

While Miss Reid attended the district M. E. A. convention at St. Cloud, Thursday and Friday the students who were not doing practice teaching in town visited various school districts for rural observation.

Florence Roberts and Alice Nolan substituted, Thursday afternoon, for Miss Drexler in the Lincoln; Arthur Van Walk, Darrold Wadsworth for Miss Alsacker in the Lowell; Jean Cass and Jeanette Jacobson assisted Miss Nyquist in Mrs. Linnemann's room at the Lowell.

Several groups are reporting for practice teaching at the Garfield, Lowell and Riverside schools tomorrow.

We hope to enlarge greatly upon this list before the year is over.
 Marie Sloss, the charming pianist who entertained the students of Brainerd high school two years ago, is the faculty pianist and assistant professor of piano at Carleton college.

Juniors May Purchase Class Rings This Year

Meeting in the Senior Assembly the Junior class held its second meeting of the year Friday night, with the President John Dahl presiding.

Miss Walkup, Mr. Blackford, and Miss O'Brien were chosen advisors. The question of dues was brought up but it was left until the expenditures of the class could be more closely itemized.

Miss Tornstrom brought up the subject of getting rings during the Junior year and members of the class were told to ponder on the subject.

Ray Wise (tardy): "Here's my pass."

Miss Lord: "It's funny that I didn't miss you."

LITTLE FALLS CONTINUES WINNING STREAK BY DEFEATING WARRIORS 15-0

Grid Sidelights

Did you notice the large squad Dammann took with him?

Although the Little Falls high school had a girls band out dressed up in snappy uniforms they only played one number.

The Brainerd side of the field stayed back of the wire while Little Falls crowded out over the field.

All the dogs on the field, they probably thought they could be football heroes and did you see the one who bit the Little Falls cheer leader.

Why it is that Tom Koeck always gets hurt in the first part of the game?

What makes the Brainerd rooters so silent, although a great many go to a game, only about three out of four people yell?

Did you know that two sets of brothers started the game namely the two Koecks and the Wygle boys?

SENIORS URGED TO PAY FOR RINGS

CLASS UNDECIDED ON KIND OF PICTURE FOLDER

The meeting of the Senior class was held at school Friday in the auditorium. Harold Strickler, president, presided. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mr. Penrose outlined to the class a plan concerning the purchase of rings and pictures. The Seniors may pay $3.50 down on their rings and $2.50 on their pictures, which must be ordered before Dec. 1. The remainder on the ring should be paid sometime after Christmas to the secretary or treasurer of the class. He also stressed that due to economic conditions there is no obligation to buy rings.

The three studios, Gorham's, Caniff's, and Caniff's, each submitted two folders. The class seemed divided on two of them but after some discussion it was decided none would suit, so the picture committee was told to get some more.

A motion was made and seconded that the class have a picnic with the Juniors. The place, time, etc., is being left up to entertainment committee.
